Overview And Experience

Francesca L. De Vettori is an associate with Alvarez, Thompson & Smoak, P.A. Her practice is focused on complex civil litigation cases involving personal injury and wrongful death, specializing in commercial transportation defense.

Francesca earned her Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice and Criminology with magna cum laude honors from Chaminade University of Honolulu. She later obtained her Juris Doctorate from Stetson University College of Law. During her time in law school, Francesca was actively involved in VITA, providing pro bono tax preparation services, and served as President of the Mental Health Law Association.

Prior to entering practice, Francesca amassed valuable legal experience in family law, guardianship, lemon law, and asbestos litigation.

A native Floridian, Francesca was born and raised in the state. Outside of her legal career, she finds joy in gardening, attending concerts, and spending quality time with her dog.
